"End Is Imminent" Death Of Pope Is Hourly Expected

Absolutely No Hope For Recovery And Length Of Life Depends Altogether On His Ability To Weather Inroads Of Bronchial Affection.

ONE AGENCY HAS REPORTED HIS DEATH

Rome, Italy, January 21.—Pope Benedict XV sank into a comatose state this afternoon and it is not likely that he will live until evening, Dr. Battinini, the Papal physician, announced at 1:40 P. M.

END IS IMMINENT, SAYS CARDINAL GASPARRI.

Rome, Italy, January 21.—"The end is imminent," said Cardinal Gasparri, emerging from the bed chamber where Pope Benedict XV lay dying. Cardinal Gasparri was weeping. At one o'clock this afternoon it was announced from the Vatican that all hope of Pope Benedict's recovery, based upon his sleep and his being able to take some little nourishment, has been abandoned.

At 2:10 P. M. the Pope's physicians were momentarily awaiting the end. They have issued no bulletins since 1:00 P. M. At 11:00 A. M. the Pope took some liquid nourishment. At 11:50 A. M. he continued in a semi-conscious condition.

POPE BENEDICT XV

Rome, Italy, Jan. 21.—Pope Benedict XV was sleeping quietly this morning when his physicians visited him at 9 o'clock. The statement that his death was only a matter of a few minutes, which had been issued earlier, was immediately withdrawn. It was declared by the papal physicians that His Holiness migh linger for a lifetime, as was the case with Pope Leo. A statement issued at 10 o'clock today declared that should the unexpected happen and the sleep into which the Pope has sunk continue for several hours he might fully recover. Praying throngs and Cardinals and their attendants, crowding the pavements this morning, have been plunged into the deepest gloom by a report in circulation that Pope Benedict's death was only a question of minutes .

Death Denied

London, England, Jan. 21.—Pope Benedict XV is dead, a news agency despatch from Rrome stated this afternoon. Upon receipt of the report here the bells of Westminister Cathedral were tolled. This will give Brady permission to place Captain of Detectives Matheson, Court stenographer Howard Vernon and Homer Trents, who took the original statements of the grls in short hand, on the witness stand to show exactly what was said by them.

He declared, furthermore, that Senator Penrose had requested him to continue in office. but that the death of the former Republican leader had caused many political changes and that his resignation was one of them

He made no reference to the fire that has been directed at him over enforcement affairs in Pennsylvania. The managment of prohibition enforcement. When asked if he was requested to resign he said:

Davis Likely Successor

Every indication in Washington tonight points to the appointment of the Rev. John Thomas Davis, member of Legislature from Blairsville Indiana County and chairman of the Law and Order Committee of the House. Officials confidently predict announcement of his selection as head of prohibition enforcement in Pennsylvania to be made immediately now that the necessity has been removed of forcing McConnell out.

The only other recognized candidate, Peter G. Walter, a Pittsburgh druggist, is said to be out of the running. It is understood Senator Pepper, whose indorsement is necessary, did not regard Walter's candidacy favorable. GUILT OF CAMP LOOTERS WILL BE EASILY PROVEN

Both Young Men Have Admitted They Had A Hand In Robberies At Hunting Clubs.

ONE BAD ACTOR

The Clearfield County Hunters Protective Association believe they have succeeded in establishing beyond question that John Young, James Sommerville and a third man, neither of the two will name, are the men who looted the Huckleberry Springs Twin Oaks, Welder, Rocky Glen, Carnwath, Curwensville, Horn's Shanty, Painter Place and Wheeler Swamp Hunting camps during the three weeks following the closing of the hunting season on December 15th last.

Both Young and Sommerville have admitted that they ransacked and despoiled about all of the camps mentioned. Sommerville was given a grilling in the District Attorney's office yesterday and finally admitted their breaking into the Welder Camp which both men had denied up to that time. When told the three robbers had been tracked on the afternoon of Sunday, December 25th from the Welder to the Painter Place. Sommerville, who is a consummate liar, reluctantly confessed that they had attempted to smash the lock with a piece of iron and failing in that removed a light of glass from the window and entered.

Sommerville denied taking the articles stolen from Welder, but a suit case full of [illegible], several blankets, an [illegible] pair of trousers, a lot of Victrola records and other wearing apparel and many smaller articles were stolen, some of which were found in both the Painter Place and Horn Shanty Camps where the gang had their hangout while looting nearby camps.

Young is Bad Actor

Young, who is undoubtedly the ring leader of the gang, has a prison record and is also said to be wanted at Weedville, Elk county for forgery. Young was sent to the Huntingdon Reformatory from Clearfield county when a lad, making a sensational getaway from the late Sheriff James P. Staver by jumping from the window of a passenger coach while the train was speeding on its way to Huntingdon. He was later picked up at Winterburn by Deputy Sheriff Hummelsbaugh and served his term.

He was arrested in 1914 for robbing the cottages at Sabula lake and when the home of his uncle at Winterburn was searched $150 worth of stolen fishing tackle, a shot gun, bed clothing and shoes, clothing, provisions, etc., stolen from the company store at Penfield were found. For depredations Judge Bell sentenced Young to six years in the penitentary. He was not long in taking up his old trade when released from the pen.

John G. Maines, the Bradford township farmer and auctioneer, was in Clearfield on business today and in conversation with some of his many friends, announced that he expected to be a candidate for County Commissioner at the 1922 primaries.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

When it comes down to farming we are going to concede that our Granger friends know all about it and while we will admit that some of them cantell us how to farm much better than they themselves can do the actual farming we still agree that the Granger is the fellow we listen to as to the farm and husbandry generally. But when it comes down to schools and things educationally we don't propose to let our Granger friend measure "our corn in his bushel". Therefore "the colyum" wants to take up the cudgel for our Hebrenian friend, Dr. Finegan, State Superintendent of Education. The Pennsylvania Grange News is panning Dr. Finegan because the State Treasurer hasn't paid $5,000,000 the State owes our public schools and which should have been paid in full August, 1, 1921. The Grange News should know that paying the bills is not the province or the duty of the Superintendent of Punblic Instruction. It's criticism should be directed toward the legislature which appropriates so lavishly the money it does not have.

Fault is also found with Dr. Finegan for the increase of cost of operagan for the increase of cost of operation of his department. That increase is most insignificant in view of the importance of the subject ana work Dr. Finegan is attempting to accomplish, and only serves to recall the opposition of the same Grange News and kindred publications to the increase in or extension of the school term in Pennsylvania, when the raising of the school term from six to nine months was to bankrupt every rural school district,—so some Grangers contended, but it didn't, and Dr. Finegan is on the right track and if left alone a year or so will make even the dyspeptic editor of the Grange News admit it.

Here's why we are with Dr. Finegan and his Department of Public Instruction, whose added to and increased facilities, personnel and equipment are commencing to boost Pennsylvania educationally to the position of standing among the States she is entitled to and should proudly hold.

The public school is our greatest National industry. It is an industry upon which any nation might be glad to base its standing in the world and its hope of progress. On this industry other industries depend for their essential elements.

They are striking figures that the bureau of education gives in its report upon the schooling of the American people. They show that 24 per cent of the population—a trifle less than one-fourth of all our people—are in school, either as pupils or as teachers.

Schooling is not only our greatest national industry, but in it we lead the world. It is a fine thing in which to lead. In Germany, the country that ranks next to ours in scope of educational equipment, only 30 per cent. of the population are in school; in Great Britain 19 per cent; in France 17 per cent.

There are 25,500,000 persons enrolled in the various educational institutions of this country This is a vast army. It is an army of peace and progress, an army training in the arts of civilization, fortified it. spirit and mobilized to give battle to the forces of poverty, inefficiency, disease. May the eagle of victory ever perch upon its bright banners.

Pennsylvania, upon the advent of Dr. Finegan upon the scene to take over the direction of this greatest industry of the State, occupied the insignificant position educationally of twenty-first in the list of forty-eight States. Think of that—Pennsylvania ,the richest State in the union, with a school or educational standing almost half way down the scale.

Pennsylvania wasn't spending very much money on her Department of Public Institution and while she migth have been getting her money's worth for every cent it was taking to operate that important department—she wasn't getting much at that.

According to the expense figures we have seen quoted in the Grange News the expense of the Department of Public Instruction has about doubled, and in doing so has but kept pace with administrative expenses in every other department of public and private business the past two or three abnormal years.

If Dr. Finegan renders increased service to our schools and public education; and educators are a unit in declaring he has already worked wonders, we say let him go to it, and think even the Grange News should be willing to give him a chance. On again, Finegan, you're on the right track. Go to it—you're alright. Grange News to the contrary notwithstanding.

Ottawa, the capital of the Dominion of Canada, takes its name from the river on which it stands. And the river bears the name of a nation of Indians belonging to the great Algonquin family. For the years 1910 to 1914, inclusive, the receipts exceeded the expenditures by $140,024,404.27. For 1915 the expenditures exceeded the receipts by $33,488,951.53. For 1916 the receipts exceeded the expenditures by $55,171,553.59, and for 1917 there was a deficit of $29,724,864.73.

From 1866 to 1917, inclusive, the receipts exceeded the expenditures for each year with the exception of 1894, 1895, 1896, 1897, 1898, 1899, 1905, 1908, 1909, 1915 and 1917. The total amount by which the expenditures exceeded the receipts for these 11 years just named, is $443,786,744.70. For the 52 fiscal years, 1866 to 1917, inclusive, the receipts exceeded the expenditures in 41 years, the total of such excess for that period being $2,501,453,184.16.

For the fiscal years 1866 to 1910, the revenues were raised through an indirect system of taxation. Beginning with the fiscal year ending June 30, 1910, the receipts from direct methods of taxation have usually grown each fiscal year, as will be seen by the following table:

1910—Corporation tax	$ 20,[illegible]
1911—Corporation tax	[illegible]
1912—Corporation tax	[illegible]
1913—Corporation tax	[illegible]
1914—Corporation excise tax	[illegible]
1914—Corporation income tax	[illegible]
1914—Individual income tax	[illegible]
1915—Emergency revenue	[illegible]
1915—Corporation income tax	[illegible]
1915—Individual income tax	[illegible]
1916—Emergency revenue	[illegible]
1916—Corporation income tax	[illegible]
1916—Individual income tax	[illegible]
1917—Emergency revenue	[illegible]
1917—Corporation income tax	[illegible]
1917—Individual income tax	[illegible]
1918—Income and excess profits tax	[illegible]
1919—Income and excess profits tax	2,[illegible]

The number of corporations making income tax returns showing taxable income, aggregated 52,498 in the calendar year 1909, and that number increased to 232,070 for the calendar year 1917. The number of individuals making personal income tax returns aggregated 357,598 for the calendar year 1913, and that number increased to 3,472,890 for the calendar year 1917.

For the fiscal year 1909 the total ordinary receipts aggregated $693,589,459.84, of which $300,711,933.95 came from customs duties, $246,212,643.59 came from internal revenue, and the balance was received from the sale of public lands and other miscellaneous items; whereas, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, the total receipts from customs amounted to $184,457,867.39, while the internal revenue, including income taxes and corporation and excess profits taxes, amounted to $3,839,950,612.05.

So you will see that until 1910 the money you paid toward the support of the government was slipped away from you so easily that you hardly knew anything about it. You did not know that you were paying taxes to the national government.

Indirect taxation is the most seductive form of raising public revenue. You never came in contact with the federal government except when you bought a postage stamp. But now you know it every time you buy a drink at a soda fountain, or a bottle of medicine, or send a telegram, or make a long-distance telephone call, or perform any one of a score of other normal activities of daily life. Something must be put in the kitty for the government. Its annual rakeoff runs into the billions. You pay it and the government spends it.

But all that part of the party is about over now. The oysters have been eaten and put in the bill. They must be paid for. It is clear that in the future by far the greater part of the revenue required for conducting the public business must come from direct taxes. It is also clear that the ordinary expenses for running the government will in future probably exceed four billion dollars a year. That is a lot of money to take out of your pockets, and mine. Hadn't we better see what is done with it, and whether we can save any of it? Congress, which is very far-sighted, and able, when its own skin is concerned, to distinguish a hawk from a hand saw at a very great distance, is beginning to take notice.

ONLY 12 CASES OF CONTAGION ARE IN QUARANTINE NOW

"Doctor" Gaulin, the "demon statistician and guardian of the public health in this community, has at last succeeded in getting a strangle hold on old Daddy Mumps, and as a result thereof but three kiddes of the town were forced to eschew pickles from the daily bill of fare by reason of having developed mumps within the past seven days. In addition to these three cases of mumps there were but four other cases of communicable diseases reported for the week. They were chicken pox 1; Whooping cough, 2, and diphtheria 1.

There are at present just 12 cases of contagious disease under quarantine in the town. They are located as follows:

First Ward—Diphtheria 3; Mumps 4; Whooping cough, 5.

Second Ward—Diphtheria, 1; Mumps, 4; Chicken pox 1.

Third Ward—Mumps, 1; Whooping cough 4.

Fourth Ward—Diphtheria, 1; Mumps 6; chicken pox, 2; whooping cough, 1.

Character.

Character is the hardest problem to solve. Lives of success could be traced down to commonplaces. When pleasure substitutes the obligation character takes wings, the hairpins and the future collect dumps from the trash heap. When self-power becomes supine it takes orders from environment and lies with others in contributing to folly. This "one of the crowd" conduct has left many a well-endowed life wrecked on the rocks of circumstances.

As in Football.

Does Your Printing Carry Your Personality?

Does it carry "you" as you are, or is it a poor counterfeit of the real "you?" It should breathe that clean-shaven, well-dressed, well-groomed air that you'd carry if you went to the person addressed yourself.

Such printing, printing that carries your own personality, is being turned out by our Commercial Printing Department every day. The surest proof is the fact that many business men are proud to say, "I had that printing done at The Progress."

New and clean-cut type, a careful supervision of every minute detail, an idea of sincere service and, last but not least, promptness, is a combination that is working every day to the advantage of many business men.

Such work cannot be turned out quickly, neither can it be turned out cheaply. But, you'll find that, quality for quality, our prices are within reach of every person demanding good work.

Many people do not understand why the looting of camps on the mountains is given so much prominence. There is, however, a serious aspect to this matter which, perhaps, has been given little thought by those who are not interested in the property left in the camps on the mountains.

With all our mountain territory, thousands of acres of barren lands where criminals could hide while not plying their trade, there has been no instance for years when robbers or bandits have taken refuge there. The sportsmen of the county are determined to keep the mountains clear of lawlessness. They realize that if the looting of the camps is not broken up it will be only a short time until we will have a lawless element living on our mountains.

The resignation of Chief McConnel of the Prohibition Enforcement Office in this state, will be hailed with delight by a populace that is thoroughly disgusted with conditions as they have remained under his tenure of office. McConnel's usual title was "Dry Enforcement Officer." This was certainly a mistake.

All who are familiar with the career of Mr. Davis of Blairsville, Pa., who is prominently mentioned for the place made vacant by McConnell's resignation, are agreed that he is the right man for the place, and under him we are sure that conditions in this state will more closely approach a state of real prohibition.

Wonder how many people of Clearfield realize that there is a borough ordinance against the throwing of ashes on the streets? The ordinance makes no distinction between brick streets and dirt streets and should not. There are a great many ashes being piled up on several of our streets these days, thereby creating nasty humps, which are not only hard to drive over by either horse-drawn or motor vehicles, but are constantly causing breakage of vehicles. Owners of vehicles intend to petition Burgess Kittelberger to abate this nuisance so those who have been violating this ordinance will do well to discontinue the practice before they have to remove what ashes they have already carried out on the streets.

Lloyd George struck a true note in his address when he plead for confidence and a sympathetic understanding between nations and their leaders. Nothing is accomplished when conferes meet with a suspicion that some are there for ulterior motives. The great Disarmament Conference could not have accomplished anything without confidence. If the European leaders can go into the Genoa conference with this great element uppermost in their minds, it will be a success.

Is there an unlicensed dog about your premises? If so, you are liable to arrest. Do not think, as we heard one fellow say yesterday, that it is up to the officers to come around and kill that dog. It is up to you to get rid of the dog or buy a license.

THE BLUE LAW CRY
(By Clarence True Wilson)

The recent Blue Law hoax was the second of its breed in American history. The latter day fake, which must have made the late Mr. Barnum look down, or up, with a grin on his face, offered as its crowning falsehood the statement that the rampant prohibitionists were going to prohibit automobile riding on Sunday.

The very name "blue law" is an historic misnomer. The alleged blue law code of New Haven and Connecticut was originally given publicity in "The History of Connecticut," written by the Rev. Samuel Peters, a clergyman of Connecticut who was driven out from that colony in 1774 because of his Tory activities, and who attempted to revenge himself upon the patriots of America by his absurd and libelous history.

Far from cruelty and intolerance in its laws, the legal code of New Haven and Connecticut was for its date in history, mild and generous in the extreme. As late as 1819 there were 223 offenses punishable by death in England, and 176 of these were without benefit of clergy. Connecticut, as early as 1642, imposed the penalty of death for twelve offenses only.

In that day horrible cruelties were common methods of government. But the Puritans of New England, so reviled by the impuritans of today, were neither cruel nor blue in their governmental practices.

According to the Rev. Samuel Peters, the "blue code of Connecticut" made it criminal in a mother to kiss her infant on the Sabbath day, strictly forbade mince pies, playing cards, playing instruments of music except the drum, trumpet, jews-harp, etc. But the same man who hurled these libels at his patriotic enemies said in the same book that "the water (of Bellows Falls) is consolidated by pressure, by swiftness, between the pinching, sturdy rocks, to such a degree of induration that no iron crow-bar can be forced into it," and on page 127 said "the stream is harder than marble."

The blue law hoax of Peters has caused that veracious individual to be taken as the patron saint of the wets and the very words of his chief libel of his country are adopted as the inspired text of the propaganda to break down with lawlessness the authority of the American constitution, the sacred compact of the best government that anywhere on earth ever blessed mankind.

It seems astonishing that a campaign founded on such an episode as Peters' libel of American customs could have been adopted by so many and carried so far. But editors have solemnly swallowed the propaganda, hook, line and cork. Clergymen have taken it up in their pulpits, lecturers have tried to ride into popularity by denouncing blue laws. They have encouraged the violation of the law, tried to make a joke of enforcement officers; attributing the success of prohibition to the leadership of the Protestant clergy, they have made them the butt of ridicule with their moving picture films, and have tried to make the law a by-word.

What is true in the United States has been much more marked abroad, where a well-financed, adriotly-conducted propaganda has sought even in the press of our Allies, England and France, to deride the United States from trying to save its peoples from intemperance.

STORAGE CELLAR ESSENTIALS

Should Be Located on Well-Drained Site and Insulated Against Cold and Heat.

The four things to be kept in mind in planning a storage cellar are: securing a well-drained site, on a knoll, if possible, but in any case where no water can settle back in the cellar; insulation against both cold and heat is necessary; the cellar should be supplied with plenty of moisture so that roots and tubers will not shrivel; at the same time it must be ventilated so that moisture does not condense or drip.

The following products can be stored in a root cellar so designed: Apples, asparagus, beans, bulbs, cabbage, canned fruit, carrots, celery, cranberries, fresh fruits, onions, parsnips, pears, potatoes, sauerkraut and tomatoes.

COVER CROPS IMPROVE SOILS

Not Grown as Much as They Deserve Nor as Frequently as Needed in Many Instances.

Cover crops for fall and winter are not used as much as they deserve nor as frequently as the soil requires. More vegetable matter is greatly needed on thin soils. Those who break early and plant rye, wheat, oats, barley or emmer will find advantages for improving soil and in extending the rotation to build up the land. Without humus it is a difficult matter to use commercial fertilizer to advantage. By turning the cover crop you make a beginning for better soil.

Man With Horns.

"A native with horns like those of a springbok, has been brought here from the Rand," writes a Johannesburg correspondent of London Tit-Bits. "The horns began to develop when he was nine years of age, and, despite frequent cutting, continue to grow. In every other respect the man is normal. It is highly probable, in view of the medical interest in the case, that he will be sent to Europe."

SWEET CLOVER SEED MUST BE CERTIFIED

That of Biennial Cannot Be Told From Annual Product.

Smaller Growers Are Advised by Department of Agriculture to Secure Assurances Regarding Authenticity of Seed.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Last fall there was probably little more than 200 bushels of annual white sweet clover seed in existence, practically all grown in Iowa, Michigan or Alabama. Nearly all of this seed was used for increase purposes so that there is at present a considerable acreage growing. There are four or five large producers with acreages in Iowa, Michigan, Ohio, Texas and Alabama, but besides these there are hundreds of farmers with from one to several acres from which they expect to harvest a crop this year, part of which will be offered for sale.

The attention of these smaller growers is called to the fact that buyers will desire to be sure that the seed offered them next winter is that of the annual and not that of the biennial white sweet clover. The seeds of the two cannot be distinguished, and it is quite possible that either by accident or design the cheaper seed of the biennial type may be sold for the more expensive annual plant. For this reason the United States Department of Agriculture urges prospective buyers to look carefully into the origin of every lot of seed offered. Growers of annual sweet clover this year should be able to state where they got their stock seed, when it was seeded, when it blossomed and when it was harvested. If any responsible state official can add his assurance that the field is true annual, such a statement would be worth getting.

A Cock of Sweet Clover Hay Which Has Been Cured to Excellent Condition.

The large growers are naturally preparing to meet all demands for evidence as to the purity of their stocks. Unless the smaller growers can also give adequate assurances regarding the authenticity of their seed it may be harder to sell and they may have to accept prices in line with those paid for common sweet clover seed. All such growers are advised to take up this matter with their farm bureaus, county agents or state experiment stations and protect themselves as far as possible.

PROFITABLE AGE FOR FOWLS

Some Hens Are Not Good Producers After Their Second Year, Others Lay Longer.

The profitable age for hens varies with individuals. Some hens are not profitable after their second year, while others will pay their keep and more too for three or four years. In figuring up the value of a hen, consideration must be given the value of her eggs as well as to the number of them she will lay.

Granddaughter of General Grant Occupies His Old Headquarters in Doing Relief Work

In Same Room Former President Had His Offices as Secretary of War, Princess Cantacuzene Directs Campaign for Help for Russian Refugees

EDNA M. COLMAN

Princess Cantacuzene, Chairman of American Central Committee for Russian Relief, Inc., at her desk in the new headquarters of the Committee in Washington where her grandfather, General Grant, had his headquarters.

THE old War Building at 532—17th St., N.W., Washington, D. C., has proudly flung forth another challenge to the public interest. From the bay window on the second floor, the United States and Russian flags are fluttering together over a sign which announces the headquarters of the American Central Committee for Russian Relief, Inc.

It was in this very room that General Grant had his office during his term as Secretary of War in 1865 and where he watched the construction of the War, State and Navy building across the street. Here, with his portrait above her desk, the Princess Cantacuzene, his granddaughter, born in the White House during his Presidential administration, is directing a campaign of mercy and vast economic potentiality. Like her distinguished grandsire she does not think in terms which admit of defeat.

After residence of twenty years in Russia, broken by short visits to her native land, Princess Cantacuzene with her family has once more taken up her residence in the National Capital, where she is energetically enlisting the interest and sympathy of old and new friends in her work for the Russian refugees outside of Russia, of whom there are now more than one million, many of them in misery and destitution.

In speaking of this work in which her heart is so entirely centered, the Princess said:

"We have brought the headquarters of the American Central Committee for Russian Relief, Inc., to Washington to be in closer contact with other national organizations and because the growth and importance of this work demands that we emphasize its national character. This is not a new work. Our committee was organized and incorporated in 1919 by a group of the friends of Russia, including the civilian members of the Mission of Senator Elihu Root to Russia and prominent Russians and Americans, for the purpose of aiding the Russian people who were victims of Bolshevik tyranny. Political developments soon made it impossible to send relief to anti-Bolshevik Russians who were in the Soviet territory, hence all our efforts were concentrated on the aid of the exiles scattered along the Russian frontiers.

"Bear in mind," the Princess continued, "that we are working to aid the Russian refugees who are driven outside of Russia by the Bolshevik. There are now at least one million of them and we are about the only society in this particular field of charitable work.

"Lack of funds is responsible for the withdrawal of various other organizations which were in part alleviating the wretchedness of these unfortunate people.

"The horrible tragedy of it is," said the Princess sadly, "that the refugees are the intellectuals or educated class, who can and will be the backbone of future regeneration of their nation and the stabilization of their government if they can be saved from starvation and epidemic until the Bolshevik rule is terminated.

"You see, the Russians we help gave all they had to the Allied Cause and are now dying from cold, hunger and disease, driven from their own land to wander in exile, hoping, praying and trying to find some means of a livelihood where at present in the majority of instances there is none to be found."

"Does not the Hoover project provide for these people?" she was asked.

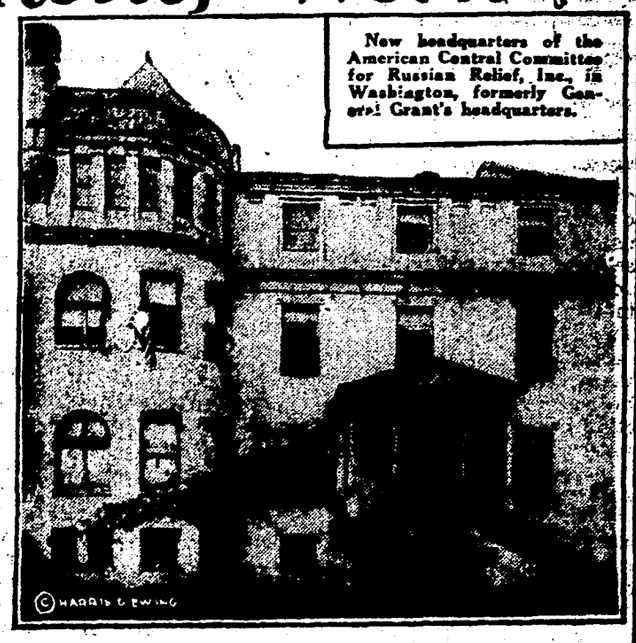

"Mr. Hoover's efforts do not include relief for any Russian refugee outside of Russia," the Princess explained. "He has sent us a check or two which had been sent him by mistake for these.

"Our refugees are widely scattered," she continued. "We have not as yet obtained the numbers in France, England, Spain, Italy and Austria, but in Scandinavia, Poland, Finland, Switzerland, Germany, Constantinople and the Balkan states and China there are about one million, most of whom are in desperate need.

"In Constantinople the situation grows steadily worse. There about 75,000 refugees are living in shacks, hovels, huts, cellars and barracks of the concentration camps in the vicinity. A large number are the aged, the babies, also the ill, crippled and wounded from the war. These, through common humanity must be aided at least with medicine, food and clothing.

"I cannot find words to paint a picture too tragic to depict the plight of these non-Bolshevik Russians!" the Princess exclaimed. "They are dying by the hundreds when only a few thousand dollars per month would mean the entire lot, for our relief work has been so systematized that we can feed a man sufficiently on five or six francs per day.

"What makes their situation more pitiable is that there is no work to be had in Constantinople. They could not emigrate to Soviet Russia without risking their lives and have no funds to go elsewhere unless we give the money."

New headquarters of the American Central Committee for Russian Relief, Inc., in Washington, formerly General Grant's headquarters.

"Is your organization affiliated with any of the political groups of Russia?"

"We are non-political. We have refused," declared the Princess emphatically, "to have any affiliation with any political group whatsoever whether Czarist, Socialist or Bolshevik. We help refugees irrespective of their political leanings."

"How does your Committee obtain its funds?"

"We have not had a 'drive' or an advertising campaign or any publicity campaign, yet every mail brings checks to aid our work.

"Our achievement in figures for the two years of our organization is $137,005.66 sent abroad in addition to 432 cases of food, clothing and drugs, all of which has been obtained through the personal efforts of the splendid members of our Board.

"Our overhead expenses have been small through the cooperation of American officials and their wives, and through the Red Cross and other organizations, in the investigational and distributional end of the work, and we have been able because of this to give practically all the funds received to the aid of the refugees.

"With such a spirit actuating our organization, we feel confident that Americans will respond to our appeal on the behalf of these, Russia's martyred citizens, who should live to build on the ruins of Bolshevism, the new Russia to be again a worthy friend and ally."

So strong is the interest in the cause becoming that several anonymous gifts for amounts of a thousand dollars and more have been received in the last few days.

The personnel of the officers and board of Directors of the American Central Committee for Russian Relief, Incorporated are as follows:

Honorary President, Charles W. Eliot; Vice Presidents, Elihu Root, Samuel Gompers, John R. Mott, Cyrus H. McCormick; Treasurer, Samuel McRoberts; Acting Secretary, Alex. Kaznakoff; Ass't. TONIGHT

When you sit down in your home to rest after the labor of the week, and the children are tucked off to bed after a warm supper, and no doubt some sweets, pause a moment in your thoughts.

You will hear the faint cry of little children far off in the Volga district of Russia, where millions are this very moment going to bed on a pallet of weeds and grass with nothing to eat but the very thing on which they lay.

No matter how humble your position, you will want to do your bit toward easing the gnawings of hunger in the stomachs of innocent children.

Your last opportunity to help is tomorrow (Sunday). Send your contribution to church or Sunday Scoool. If no collection is taken there for the cause, tell them what it is for and it will be turned over to the proper parties.

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

LESSON FOR JANUARY 22

ELIJAH'S FLIGHT AND RETURN.

LESSON TEXT—I Kings 19:1-21.

GOLDEN TEXT—I waited patiently for the Lord; and he inclined unto me, and heard my cry.—Ps. 40:1.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Ezek. 2:1-7; Acts 16:6-10; 18:7-11.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God Sends an Angel to Help Elijah.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God Strengthens Elijah.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jehovah's Champion Encouraged.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Finding and Finishing Our Task.

This lesson story proves Elijah to have been a man of like passions as we are (Jas. 5:17).

1. Elijah's Flight (vv. 1-14). Upon Ahab's return from the excitement on Mount Carmel, he told his wife all that Elijah had done—that even all her prophets had been hewn to pieces by the sword. This so enraged her that she sent a message of death to Elijah, who seems to have been waiting at the gate (vv. 1, 2). This was clearly a bluff on Jezebel's part. Though Elijah had courageously stood before the king and the priests of Baal, he now cowered before this woman and fled for his life. He seems to have failed at his strongest point.

1. Elijah under the juniper tree (vv. 3-7). The juniper tree was a shrub of the desert which afforded shelter and protection to travelers from the burning sun by day and the cold wind by night. (1) His request (v. 4). This was that he might die. This was, no doubt, a foolish thing for him to say, but let us be as considerate toward him as was God. The discouragement, and even despondency, of Elijah was due to the nervous strain of about four years of unusual service for God, which culminated on Mount Carmel. Such nervous reaction is to be expected. (2) God's tender treatment (vv. 5-7). (a) He gave him sleep (v. 5). "He giveth His beloved sleep" (Psa. 127:2). (b) He sent an angel to cook Elijah's meal (vv. 6, 7). The angel of the Lord is usually understood to be the second member of the Holy Trinity. If this be correct, then we see Jehovah-Jesus preparing food for His servant Elijah, as He afterward did for His discouraged disciples by Galilee (John 21:19). God again gave him sleep, and at the proper time again gave him food. Though Elijah wanted to die, God had something better for him, for in a later day He met him with the "chariot of the Lord" and took him to heaven untouched by death.

2. Elijah at Horeb (vv. 8-14).

(1) God's interview with Elijah in the cave (vv. 9, 10). (a) God's question (v. 9). "What doest thou here, Elijah?" This was a stinging rebuke, though most kindly given. It implied that His appointed messenger was now far away from the field of duty. Elijah was not where God wanted him, but God sought him where he was. How blessed to know that "A God-forsaking saint is not a God-forsaken saint!" (b) Elijah's answer (v. 10). Elijah tried to vindicate himself by asserting his jealous loyalty to God—that in spite of all this the people had not only rejected his message and dishonored God, but had sought to destroy him. (2) God's interview with Elijah on the Mount (vv. 11-14). While standing before the Lord on the mount, God caused a mighty demonstration of wind, earthquake and fire to pass before him to show unto him the nature of the work which he had been doing for God, and to show him what was lacking in his work for the fullest attainment of success. Elijah had about him much of the whirlwind, earthquake and fire. His work had been terrifying and alarming, but it lacked in gentleness and love.

II. Elijah's Return (vv. 15-18). Though Elijah had erred, God brought him again into His service. How comforting to know that God does not reject His servants because of their failures in times of despondency! He deals with them after the motive of their hearts. Elijah was nourished and instructed by the Lord and then sent on a high mission. God is a fine psychologist. He took Elijah out of himself by giving him a new commission. The most healing ministry is that of work. Many bereaved ones have been lifted out of themselves by active ministry to others. Before God would come in His chariot to take Elijah home, He set him upon a threefold ministry:

1. To anoint Hazael king over Syria (v. 15).
2. To anoint Jehu king over Israel (v. 16).
3. To anoint Elisha as his own successor (vv. 19-21).

Time Rightly Employed.

Never talk with any man, or undertake any trifling employment, merely to pass the time away; for every day well spent may become a "day of salvation," and time rightly employed is an "acceptable time." And remember that the time thou triflest away was given thee to repent in, to pray for pardon of sins, to work out thy salvation, to do the work of grace, to lay up against the day of judgment a treasure of good works, that thy time may be crowned with eternity.—Jeremy Taylor.

The Clearfield Progress
Clearfield, Pa.

Gentlemen: We write to know of the whereabouts of Colonel Kuhn and to answer a part of his lengthy epistle. Several days have elapsed since we have had the pleasure of seing his military figure promenading on Main street, with his double-barreler on his shoulder? We also want to ask where he got his title—Colonel—as the only way that we could figure it is that the colonel is the best part of a "nut."

We must confess that he did his duty, that he shot the rich dogs and the poor one alike, but when a fellow pays his good dollar for a license we think that Colonel should mail it back ater he takes the dog away. Instead of that he kills the dogs and thousands of them at that, and gets his two dollar fee and then took several around to F. F. Tate the butcher, trying to sell them for sausage meat.

He also killed several only half—they lived and howled and squirmed for several hours after he gave them his dose of salt and pepper. Was this fair to either the dog or the community? And then he always left town on the five o'clock bus when it was daylight and he was sure that he could make a safe getawal, and be sure that our sore heads would not make his head sore.

He may think that it is legal to go on a man's premises, break into his house, shoot the dog that the State laws have licensed, but can he think for one minute that he is not caught by the "Act of Assembly" No. 23 that deals with "Crulty to Animals."

The next time Kuhn or Col. Kuhn comes to town he wants to bring a set of double barrelled shot guns and the Hospital Ambulance, as well.

Yours very truly
A. DOG FANCIER

We'll have to give "Colonel" Max Kuhn credit for playing no favorites in his campaign against wayward and running at large dogs in our town. A day or so ago, about dusk Max was coming up street on the lookout for dorgs. His sharpshooter's eye rested for a minute on a beautiful big Newfoundland on Irvin's front lawn. Without further incident or investigation the Colonel let fly six shots from his trusty repeater and was loading up to try it again, as the dog still stood at ease, unharmed, when chief Clark horned in and put an end to the hostilities by informing the "Colonel" that this particular dog was iron. The dog formerly graced the lawn at the J. B. Graham home in Clearfield, the site of the present County National Bank, but the fact that it was from Clearfield cut no ice with the "Colonel" although he failed to hit the dog with any one of his six shots.

About twenty-fifive of Curwensville's young people journeyed to Kellytown by sleds the other evening reporting a most delightful sleighing party. After arriving at Kellytown they stopped at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Simcox, where the evening was spent in playing bridge and 500. At 1:00 covers were laid for the whole party and after partaking in a sumptuous dinner the party voted a voice of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Simcox for their generosity. The party left for home in the wee hours of the morning.

Mrs. O. J. Shugarts received word that her husband arrived safe in Kansas City, Mis., where he is enrolled in the E. J. Sweeney Automobile & Tractor School.

PARADISE

The kiddies are enjoying the skating on Mossops pond.

Denzil Woodle, of Sandy Ridge, is visiting with relatives here.

Mrs. Clyde Bailer has been quite ill but is reported some better at this writing.

Last evening a number of the Clearfield Textile Mills employes called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Thompson and gave them a jolly serenade and also tendered them a misselleanous shower. Mrs. Thompson was formerly Miss Berenice Giles and an employe of the Textile Mills. We are glad to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Thompson to our community as they are both fine people and have a host of friends. We extend our heartiest congratulations.

Denzil Collins is confined to his home with a severe attack of grippe. Denzil is one of the committee for the Red Men's big supper next Tuesday evening and has acknowledged that that is the only reason he is "obeying orders," so that he will be able to participate at the repast.

Little Marion, the two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Caldwell has been suffering with pneumonia. We are glad to state that she is reported past all danger at this writing.

Mrs. Charlie Pollinghorn and children of Woodland and Mrs. Leo Wilson and children of Barrett, spent Wednesday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Hunchberger.

The many friends of Emory Miller will be glad to learn that he is somewhat improved in health. Mr. Miller has been bed fast for the past four weeks but was able to sit up for while today. We hope for his speedy recovery.

We promised not to do it but it is such a temptation we can hardly resist. Most people have forgotten already about the heavy snow storm last week but we have in our neighborhood one (gent) who will never forget it (we don't think.) While he was jerking the old jitney buss out of one snow drift into another some one whispered quietly to him that old Doc Stork had slipped gently by him and was on his way to his home At this warning he became more powerless than ever and things grew more discouraging every minute until he was forced to surrender and get home the best way he could. Although it was zero weather the perspiration stood on his face when he arrived home but the wearied look soon faded into a smile when we said (it's a girl.)

W. A. Collins' new hot houses are certainly a picture at this season of the year. One house is now filled with carnations and sweet peas while another is an immense bed of lettuce which is very tempting. The third consists of ferns and potted plants ,also a lemon tree. This lemon tree is something out of the ordinary. It has on it at the present time seven lemons averaging about one and a half pounds each.

Little Ethel Fister has measles.

Misses Nora Gearhart and Elizabeth Boal teachers of our schools, will spend Sunday with their parents in Glen Richey.

Dave Etzweiler, one of Penn Public's most competent employes visited his many friends here Thursday "while reading meters." Dave is a good, friendly fellow, walks in smiles and never charges you a cent. The other fellow does that.

WOODLAND

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Butler on January the 16th a big 10 lbs baby boy.

Edward Stiner of Lecontes Mills, is spending the week end with relatives at Woodland.

Irene Adopts a Turtle

Irene Castle has just adopted a 700-year-old turtle, resident of the Bronx Zoo, New York. Photo shows the turtle teaching her the steps of the "Turtle Trot," which she may introduce to the stage.

Cracks in Floor.

Make a paste of half a pound of flour, three quarts of water and a half-pound of alum; mix thoroughly and boil; soak newspapers in this paste until the mixture is about as thick as putty and force it into the cracks with case knife. It will harden like papier mache.

"Poilu" Characteristic.

The word "poilu," which was applied as a nickname to the French soldier during the World war, means hairy or shaggy, and is generally used in that country to denote a man of strength and character, the idea being that men with hairy faces and arms and chests are strong.

SURVEYOR CROWD SLEIGH RIDES

A jolly crowd of Surveyor young people sledded down to the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Reese near Frenchville and enjoyed a delightful party at the Reese home. "Old Man" Reese was right at home with the young fellows in the "kissing games" and also had his dancing pumps on. Delicious refreshments were a major portion of the evening's enjoyment.

ALL IS NOT SO WELL WITH LOCAL CAGERS

The Clearfield High School Basketball Team was defeated by Punxsutawney High last evening by the score of 44 to 24. The veteran Punxsy team completely outclassed our first year tossers.

The Williamsport High School team one of the very top notch high teams of the State will meet the local High School boys at the High School auditorium this evening at 8:30 o'clock. Williamsport has the same team intact that lost last year's championship to Mc Keesport High by the narrow margin of but two points. They are about the classiest team that will appear here this season and all who admire this strenuous pastime should turn out to see them play tonight.

The other league game resulted in a bitter battle between Reynoldsville and New Bethlehem at the latter place, the Jefferson County boys downing their Clarion Co. opponents by the narrow margin of one point, the final score being Reynoldsville 34; New Bethlehem 33.

The Ridgway American Legion Basketball Team developed some real class in last night's game at the High School gymnasium, when they swamped, smothered and squelched the local Legionaries in a game which resulted Ridgway 53; Clearfield, 12. It was simply orful.

DuBois won from Brookville High at Brookville, score 26 to 19.

Speaker and Lord Chancellor.

One difference between the speaker of the English house of commons and the lord chancellor, who occupies a similar position in the house of lords, is that while the speaker cannot take part in debates and can vote only when there is a tie, the lord chancellor is entitled to speak and vote on all occasions.

Without Fear.

A little girl was reproached by her mother for ironing her doll's clothes on Sunday. "It's very wicked," said the mother, "to do that on Sunday—and you may be sure the Lord sees you." "Oh, then I'm sure He knows this iron is cold, so it's all right," answered the little girl.

Much in a Name.

A rose by any other name may smell as sweet, but—there is a lovely rambler rose known as "Lady Gay." This flower was originally named "Amelia Jenkins," but no one bought it or troubled to cultivate it. Under its new name it has met with wide popularity.

Better Not Experiment.

It is rumored the jewelers have a movement on to make November a month of weddings, the same as June. If they do, what will a man, who has married in November, with the taxes due in three weeks and Christmas looming ahead of him, have to be thankful for on Thanksgiving Day?—Emporia Gazette.

Jimmy had long wanted a brother, so when twins, a boy and a girl, arrived at his home and he was told a baby sister and brother had come, he heaved a deep sigh and said: "Gee, I'm glad it wasn't all sister."

The Coldest Place.

Havre, Mont., is said to be the coldest place in the United States. Its winter temperatures are lower than the winter temperatures of Alaska. At Point Barrow, the northernmost point of Alaska, the lowest recorded temperature is 54 degrees below zero, while Havre not infrequently records temperatures below 60 degrees.

Evolution of Familar Word.

The tracing of the term "pocket-handkerchief" reveals some somewhat peculiar facts. At first it was described as kerchief (couvre-chef), a covering for the head carried in the hand, and at length pocket-handkerchief, a covering for the head held in the hand and kept in the pocket.

Success Means Work.

There are very many people who have great expectations but the trouble with most of them is they won't exert the effort necessary to realize what they expect. Under present competitive conditions success comes only through hard work.

The Opportunity.

In this world the one thing supremely worth having is the opportunity to do worthily a piece of work, the doing of which is of vital consequence to the welfare of mankind.—Roosevelt.

The accident rates in coal mines of England, France, Belgium, Germany, Austria and Japan are much lower than in America, because all the miners in one mine speak the same language.

Long-Distance View.

Looking from one lofty mountain range across to another, enormous distances may be spanned. The record is said to be between Mount Sparta in Mexico, and the Sierra Madre, the two ranges being about two hundred miles apart.

SHE KNEW McCARTY'S

We had a letter from a friend of ours who spends the winter down in St. Petersburg, Fla., saying that she had met a lady, who, when at home resides in one of our nearby towns. This friend naturally inquired if she knew McCarty's. The lady replied, "Oh yes, I have eaten McCarty's Ice Cream—it is the best ever"

Some flavor, eh, when it lasts a distance like that!

Milk Consumers---

PLEASE TAKE IN YOUR MILK AS SOON AS IT IS DELIVERED SO THAT IT WILL NOT FREEZE

There is a mistaken idea that milk left on your porch and allowed to freeze will not deteriorate. This is not the case—it WILL deteriorate. There is a chemical action takes place that is not best for the milk and doubtless you have noticed a slight taste of bitterness after the milk thaws.

If you will take in the bottle as soon as it is delivered, or shortly afterward, you will find that the milk will taste as it should and there is no chance for deterioration.

This is a request in line with our desire to give you the best service possible and the best milk you may possibly have.
